

Lesley Beskey – Another Girl

Walking through the raindrops
My snarefriend on my side
I've never seen an emptiness like this before
Looking for some girlfriend, crying I can't hear
I know she wouldn't die after me

But imagine I would meet a girl
Another girl age 5
Agreeing with the clothes I wear
The high, the laugh the stuff the night
I know they do exist oh yeah,
I see them everyday,
It scares me I would dodge the thought
Of losing her today

Walking in an emptiness, an emptiness without you
Don't know how to choose a girl, and don't know what to do
Dreaming everynight of all the awful things
Please tell me if you can
Please come to me and then

I don't know what to do with you
Shall I offer you a drink?
And talk to you like I have done, before the summer came
And treat you like a common girl
And kiss you on your cheek?
I know I wouldn't do, I know I couldn't do.

The problem I am sitting in
Is bigger than you think
I know that time will give advise
But I am waiting sick
Is there anyone to talk to,
Is there anyone for me?
I'm falling in a ruin, and I'm never falling back

I wanna tell you honestly
Everything I think
I hope you know, you can't blame me, when I love another girl
But there's one thing, that you got to know
And I'll make you sure of that You're innocent, and you must believe
It's true
